About Gloucestershire Hospitals

We run Cheltenham General Hospital and Gloucestershire Royal Hospital, as well as Stroud Maternity Unit. Our doctors and nurses also see patients at clinics across the county. We provide high quality acute elective and specialist care for a population of more than 850,000 people in the county and surrounding areas.

Our hospitals are recognised for providing high-quality services and we are leaders in specialisms such as oncology, ophthalmology, critical care, research, maternity and paediatrics. In addition to our clinical work, we have won regional and national awards for our support for reservists as well as areas such as education and development, and apprenticeships.

The Trust is built on the dedication and hard work of our staff and we are very proud of our workforce. We recognise that our employees are our most valuable asset. We want everyone who works for our hospitals to feel good about the care they provide, the work they do and their place of work.

We are committed to delivering the investment in time and training needed to help each one become the very best they can be. We provide a range of high-quality education; training and development for healthcare professionals and non-clinical staff with the specific aim of improving patient care. Whether you want to develop new skills, improve your job prospects or change jobs completely we have the career for you.

Our patients are at the heart of everything we do, but we don't just take care of the hundreds of thousands of patients who use our services every year; we're equally committed to taking care of our staff. As the second largest employer in Gloucestershire, we can offer a huge range of opportunities and benefits in a genuinely supportive working environment. We also know that being a good employer is about much more than providing staff benefits.

We have worked with our staff to develop a set of values that we all share. These are based on mutual respect, openness and accountability. Many of our employees work directly with the patient. Other roles contribute by offering valuable support across the organisation.

Whether you want to work in a nursing role, or your skills are in another specialism such as maintenance, radiography, catering or accountancy, there are roles suited to you at Gloucestershire Hospitals NHS Foundation Trust.
